The Final Years of Schooling: What the finest Sydney boarding schools can offer Luncheon| Monday 19 March

As two of the leading schools in Australia, Tara Anglican School for Girls and The King's School have seen the difference independent schools can make in the final years of schooling for expat students. Tara and King's are more than just places of remarkable teaching and learning, they are places where boys and girls can flourish and prepare them for life with a myriad of opportunities and experiences for their development.

This luncheon will cover key aspects of education that remain front of mind when thinking about education for your children:

- The power of single sex education;
- Academic rigor and superior pastoral care;
- Security and space with first class facilities; and
- The unique advantage of a values rich education.

About the speakers:

Susan Middlebrook, Principal, Tara Anglican School for Girls
MEd (Admin) BEc Dip Ed MACE MACEL

Susan Middlebrook has lead Tara Anglican School for Girls for nine years and has worked in education for more than 30 years. She has a strong background in both curriculum and pastoral care and is an experienced classroom teacher, with a special interest in Geography and Economics. Susan is currently President of the Association of Heads of Girls Schools (AHIGS). In addition, she is a member of the Association of Independent Schools Australia (AHISA NSW/ACT) Executive Committee and Academic Committee and is a member of the Board for the Anglican Education Commission.

Susan has worked in a variety of Anglican schools and brings passion and commitment to the education of girls. She has post graduate qualifications in educational leadership and has a strong vision for the future of Tara with the aim of providing the very best education and personal growth experience for every Tara girl.

Peter Reuben, Registrar, The King's School
BSc (USyd), MChiro (Macq), MTeach (MSyd) MACE

Peter is the Registrar of The King's School. He has worked at the school for 11 years, filling many roles including; Science and Physics teacher, Senior Boarding Housemaster, Housemaster of Year 7 and Chairman of the Common Room. He previously worked as a self-employed Chiropractor in Sydney's Inner West, having built his practice to 150 patient visits per week.

As Peter is an old boy of King's, he has a strong belief in the value of boys' education and the benefits obtained by allowing boys to be educated in single sex environment. He is married with three children; Holly, Alex and Natasha, all of whom went to King's and Tara.
